Farm Relief Differences Among Republicans Reach Stage of Open Warfare

Washington, April 26. (AP)—Differences among Republican members of the agriculture committee, amounting for months within the committee room, broke out on the floor of the house today when Chairman Haugen, of Iowa, and Representative Tinker, of Kansas, engaged in a brief but heated debate on farm relief. Mr. Tinker, author of the farm credit plan sponsored by Secretary Jardine, discussed his measure, but little confidence himself largely to an attack on the Haugen bill, which would appropriate $375,000,000 to the federal agricultural banks. He called the Haugen proposal a government subsidy, said no one was for it, and charging farm organizations supporting the proposal with inconsistency in accepting it after declaring they did not want to be subsidized.

Mr. Haugen defended his bill, and asked whether the farmers' representatives could not come before a congressional committee without having their motives questioned. He contended his proposal was no more a subsidy than the Tinker bill, which would appropriate $100,000,000 for loans to farmers' cooperative associations.

The tilt was a preliminary to the general farm relief debate scheduled for late this week of early next, after the agriculture committee places these bills before the house—the Haugen and Tinker bills and the Curtis-Aswell national commodity marketing measure.

Mr. Haugen today amended his bill by including butter, as a basic commodity, along with wheat, cotton, corn, cattle and swine.

Referring to the Haugen bill, Representative Tinker said in the house that "We can't pass it until we have a new tax law to carry it along."

"No one will contend," he added, "that under our present tax law there will be the surplus enough to take $375,000,000 out of the treasury."

Representative Tinker said the Haugen bill "was written by certain alarmists who have misrepresented their people at home."

Mr. Haugen asked whether "it is possible that farm organizations are not permitted to have a committee of congressmen without their motives being questioned."

Mr. Tinker then asserted that Sam H. Thompson of Illinois, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who attacked the Tinker bill in Chicago, yesterday, apparently had "gone back" on a previous assertion that he was opposed to a subsidy.

FLOODS THREATEN UPPER YORK STATE

Albany, N. Y., April 26. (AP)—With two upstate rivers at their highest levels in years, northern New York state today was threatened with damage resulting from a deluge of spring freshet which had swept away bridges, sections of roadways and halted travel over trunk highways.

The Saratoga river at Plattsburg touched its highest stage in 48 years and the Hudson river at Glen's Falls washed out all previous high water marks since the record crest of 1913.

The Hudson river at Albany was at flood stage with the Mohawk, a tributary, pouring in an additional burden from the southern slopes of the Adirondacks.

ANDREWS SEEKS BLANKET POWER IN ENFORCEMENT

Bill Offered Giving Department Authority to Issue Adequate Regulations

Washington, April 26. (AP)—Blanket authority for the treasury to issue such regulations as it may deem necessary to carry out the national prohibition act was proposed in one of five administration bills introduced today by Chairman Cummins of the senate judiciary committee and it immediately brought a chorus of protests from wet members of that branch of congress.

Some of the wet senators sensed in the proposal a "joker" which they prepared to oppose with all the force at their command. Even some of the dry senators declared that it would not get far in this session.

The provisions was attached to the end of one of the bills which would give the treasury the right to review all liquor and alcohol permits annually and to refuse to renew any or all of them for cause.

"The prohibition commissioner with the approval of the secretary of the treasury," the provision read, "may issue such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the national prohibition act."

Washington, April 26. (AP)—Responsibility for improvement in prohibition enforcement conditions now rests with congress, in the opinion of Assistant Secretary Andrews, in charge of dry work.

Coincident with his statement, Chairman Cummins of the senate judiciary committee introduced the five bills recently drafted by the enforcement chief designed to tighten the prohibition laws.

Mr. Andrews in reflecting today on the hearings conducted by the senate investigating committee said that if the enforcement laws were to do no more than "plug along" it must be the legislative aid he has requested.

Reviewing activities of his forces in the past year he called attention to these developments which he believed had considerably improved conditions.

Reorganization of the prohibition unit and policy changes as to permit contentment against the liquor traffic and place responsibility for local enforcement on local officials.

Transfer of alcohol control from the internal revenue bureau to prohibition unit.

Co-ordination of the coast guard collectors of customs and prohibition unit to reduce smuggling, resulting in "practical elimination of rum running."

Treasury orders for annual review of all permits, new control of sacramental wine and limiting the use of whiskey in the manufacture of patent medicines.

The principal address was given in the morning by Dr. Klein, on the object of the convention, and Dr. Klein spoke in the afternoon. The evening speakers were G. W. Foxley of Arlington, and Rev. William H. Baker of Dallas.

The ladies of the church served lunch at noon and an informal dinner at 6 o'clock in the basement of the church.

Amity Treaty Between Russia And Germany Favors the League
Berlin, April 26. (AP)—The Amity treaty, signed last Saturday by Germany and Russia, will run for five years and sets up a basis of relations between the two countries in four separate sections. First, both governments agree to give the treaty of Rapallo as a basis for their relations. Second, they both affirm their desire for peace. Third, they agree to regulate all political and economic problems concerning both by mutual consent. Fourth, each pledges neutrality in the event of an attack by a third party on the signatories. In notes appended to the treaty, Foreign Minister Stresemann laid emphasis on the statement that Germany believes that the League of Nations is an aid to maintaining world peace. Germany's joining the league, the notes say, would not constitute an anti-Russian move, Russia being assured that Germany would never participate in an anti-Russian coalition or combination which would have an aggressive tendency toward Russia. DALLAS SCHOOL CLOSED UNDER SMALLPOX BAN

Nine New Cases Found on One Oak Cliff Street; Many Children Exposed

Dallas, April 26. (AP)—Winnetta school in Oak Cliff was ordered closed Monday by Dr. N. W. Andrews, city health director, following the discovery of nine new cases of smallpox on South Brighton street. Four children of two families with advanced stages of the disease, attended the school Thursday and Friday.

This is the fourth school in Dallas to have been placed under smallpox quarantine this spring. The building was thoroughly fumigated and will be reopened Tuesday to children who show satisfactory vaccination certificates.

Several operatives from the health department will be at the school to make sure that children who are not immunized are not permitted to enter until they are effectively vaccinated.

The building was fumigated Sunday, and children found it practically impossible to carry on their studies Monday on account of the formaldehyde odors.

Four of the smallpox cases were in the 600 block and the other five in the 900 block on South Brighton street. The families had visited between the two homes and in several other Oak Cliff homes.

Hundreds of contacts were established among the school children, but proper vaccination precautions may include a further spread, said Dr. Andrews.

MARRS WANTS STATE SCHOOL APPROPRIATION

Asks Governor to Submit Supplement Apportionment of Funds

Austin, April 26. (AP)—S. H. N. Marrs, superintendent of public instruction, today urged the governor in event he calls a special session of the legislature, to submit a supplemental appropriation for the state available school fund. He said that a $12 per capita apportionment is in sight for the next school year and inasmuch as there is $4,000,000 in the state treasury fund, that the apportionment should be $15.

In the event Governor Miriam A. Ferguson decides to call a special session of the legislature, I sincerely hope she will submit the proposal of a supplemental appropriation for the state available school fund along with the validation of the next bonds," Marrs said.

All candidates for governor, as well as a decided majority of both the house and senate, have agreed that the minimum per capita should be $15. The per capita of $14 for 1925-1926 was obtained by utilizing a balance of more than $2,500,000 which had accumulated through the textbook litigation and economy in the administration of the textbook law. This balance carried over from the preceding year was paid the state to pay $2 on the apportionment last September and the remaining $12 will be obtained from the regular sources of income this year. There will be practically no balance at the end of next September and consequently no payment can be made during the first month.

If this supplemental appropriation is made it should be done as early as practicable," Marrs said. "When the per capita drops from $14 to $12 next year, the district must meet conditions in one or more of the following ways: increase the local maintenance tax, reduce length of term, reduce salaries and reduce number of teachers and the overhead those retaining in the system. Of course, this last will not apply to one-teacher schools."

Inasmuch as this is not a controversial subject it seems that relief for the schools may be obtained if the subject is submitted to the legislature.

AGUINALDO URGES CHANGE OF LEADERS

Manila, April 26. (AP)—General Emilio Aguinaldo, speaking before several hundred veterans of the Philippine revolution in Bulacan province today, declared: "As long as we are controlled by politicians such as we have now, America will never grant Philippine independence."

Aguinaldo was replying to criticism by members of the supreme national council because the veterans of the revolution of which he is president, had previously declined as a body to ally themselves with the supreme national council. He declared the Filipinos should change leaders if they desired success.

Santiago, Chile, April 26. (AP)—Chileans held a patriotic parade here yesterday to emphasize their desire that the Tarns-Arce plebiscitary award be fulfilled in perpetuity to any direct settlement of the dispute between Chile and Peru over the sovereignty of the provinces.

During the parade Senor Villena, one of the editors of the newspaper Voz del Sur, was attacked by a number of the parade who declared he was deriding the demonstration. Peruvians denied this, saying the editor was merely getting information with which to describe the parade in his paper. Villena was not seriously injured.

Home Benefit Pays

MRS. M. A. GRAY'S CHECK ISSUED DAY AFTER FUNERAL

Delta County Claim
Mrs. Gray was buried on Sunday and the Home Benefit Association was notified by phone the following day. The check for $1,000.00 was executed same day, notice was received.

The Home Benefit Association furnished $1,000.00 worth of life insurance last year at a total cost of $7.40. To older folks, those above 55, they furnished $500.00 worth of life insurance at a total cost of $7.40. For the children they furnished a $500.00 policy at a total cost of $2.00.

Those who are not policy holders should communicate with the office over the Lamar State bank. Those who have only one policy should inquire about more insurance, as the Home Benefit Association can issue three policies upon one life.
The following letter is evidence of the splendid service the Home Benefit Association of Paris, Texas, gives to its policyholders.
Mr. W. C. Francis, Sec.-Treas., Home Benefit Association, Paris, Texas.
Dear Sir:—

I wish to acknowledge receipt of your check for $1,000.00 in full payment of policy in Group No. 2 upon the life of my wife, Mrs. Mahal A. Gray, policy No. 1085.
My wife was buried on April 18th, 1926, and you were notified by a friend the following day and check was issued same day you were notified. Wish also to thank your representative who came in person to my home and delivered to me a deposit slip for $1,000.00 and attended to the securing of all proofs. The total amount that I had paid out for this policy was only $11.19. My wife carried other insurance but the Home Benefit was the first insurance paid and furnished me money with which I could take care of all expenses of my wife's death almost immediately.
The fact that the Home office of the Home Benefit Association is located only a few hours drive from Cooper is certainly an advantage to the policy holders in the section. In most cases the Home office is located a considerable distance from this section and it requires in most cases two months to secure final payment of insurance.
I can only recommend your company in the highest terms because I believe that you charge less for your insurance than any other company and pay claims quicker.

Yours truly,
J. M. Gary,
Beneficiary.

Attention Members, Group No. 2

Collection is now being made for May dues of $1.00 and Assessment No. 5 on account of above death of $1.19. Both amounts should be paid on or before May 1st. The Group No. 2 policy is a thousand dollar piece of property and should not be trifled with. See that your payments are always made promptly. It is dangerous to wait until the last day. Ask us to collect your dues and assessments from your bank. This is the safest way to prevent you from letting your policy lapse by oversight. It relieves you of any attention to payments whatever.

Home Benefit Pays

MRS. M. A. GRAY'S CHECK ISSUED DAY AFTER FUNERAL

Delta County Claim
Mrs. Gray was buried on Sunday and the Home Benefit Association was notified by phone the following day. The check for $1,000.00 was executed same day, notice was received.

The Home Benefit Association furnished $1,000.00 worth of life insurance last year at a total cost of $7.40. To older folks, those above 55, they furnished $500.00 worth of life insurance at a total cost of $7.40. For the children they furnished a $500.00 policy at a total cost of $2.00.

Those who are not policy holders should communicate with the office over the Lamar State bank. Those who have only one policy should inquire about more insurance, as the Home Benefit Association can issue three policies upon one life.
The following letter is evidence of the splendid service the Home Benefit Association of Paris, Texas, gives to its policyholders.
Mr. W. C. Francis, Sec.-Treas., Home Benefit Association, Paris, Texas.
Dear Sir:—

I wish to acknowledge receipt of your check for $1,000.00 in full payment of policy in Group No. 2 upon the life of my wife, Mrs. Mahal A. Gray, policy No. 1085.
My wife was buried on April 18th, 1926, and you were notified by a friend the following day and check was issued same day you were notified. Wish also to thank your representative who came in person to my home and delivered to me a deposit slip for $1,000.00 and attended to the securing of all proofs. The total amount that I had paid out for this policy was only $11.19. My wife carried other insurance but the Home Benefit was the first insurance paid and furnished me money with which I could take care of all expenses of my wife's death almost immediately.
The fact that the Home office of the Home Benefit Association is located only a few hours drive from Cooper is certainly an advantage to the policy holders in the section. In most cases the Home office is located a considerable distance from this section and it requires in most cases two months to secure final payment of insurance.
I can only recommend your company in the highest terms because I believe that you charge less for your insurance than any other company and pay claims quicker.

Yours truly,
J. M. Gary,
Beneficiary.

Song Recital Presented
 Lola Mayer, assisted by Katherine Aulis, and accompanied by Mrs. Jack Norman, gave a delightful song recital at the high school auditorium on Monday evening, with an unusually large and very appreciative audience in attendance.

Mrs. Mayer's program was specially suited to her clear mezzo-soprano voice, and included a group of songs in French, and other in German, besides compositions by Curran, Silberta, Watts, Dunhill, Coleridge-Taylor, and others, comprising a very elaborate and varied group of songs.
 Through training, excellent control and facile enunciation added much to Miss Mayer's ability and she reached the climax in her final number, "Manna-Zucca," "Sich'nevo." The applause brought her back for a brief encore.

Mrs. Norman's accompaniments were as always, a beautiful background for the voice.
 Miss Amis' numbers included such difficult selections as Liszt's "Liebestraum," a scherzo by Chopin and three movements of the "Moonlight Sonata." Her artistry in rendering these was thoroughly appreciated by the audience and she responded to two encores equally delightful.

SPIRITUAL SUPREMACY
DR. STANWORTH'S TOPIC

Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church, excellent musical numbers were rendered by Miss House, Mrs. Lowery, Messrs. Eike and Gee. Dr. Stanworth preached on "The Supremacy of the Spiritual," using as his text: "Set your mind on the things that are above, not on the things that are upon the earth."
 Ambition is partially to be admitted, Dr. Stanworth said, "but it often needs to be directed. This passage intimates that there is a possibility of focusing on the wrong thing, and urges an ambition that is infinitely greater than any material goal."
 "There is a tendency to let the immediate blot out the remote. But any ambition does not carry one beyond the limit of three score years and ten is not satisfactory. Solomon gratified every desire and satisfied every wish, then wrote, 'Vanity of vanities, all is vanity.'"
 "What we need in an age like this is to see things in their right relationship, to get a correct perspective. And then we shall see the wisdom of obeying the apostle's injunction to turn our minds from the things that are below, to the things that are above, from things of time, to the things of eternity."

OCTOGENARIAN COTTON MEN FORM OWN HEALTH CLUB

London.—Manchester octogenarian cotton men have established a club where they are doing their daily "jerks" and keeping themselves fit to the despair of subordinates who hope to step into the shoes of the old men.

Lord Inchcape, at 73, is still the head of a great shipping organization and far more frisky than many of his younger associates.
 Lord Balfour, at 77, still plays tennis and never showed a firmer grip on world affairs. Thomson Hardy, at 85, is still going strong as a poet. Lord Oxford shows no signs of age and carries his 70 years with a vim that is discouraging to men who thought he was finished when he surrendered the premiership.

Drinks Are Banned
 Crickethill, England.—Lloyd George's golf club here has decided not to mix drinks with its games. Proposals to make the club "wet" were defeated by Lloyd George's brother and a majority of the other club members who decided that the sight of golfers drinking intoxicants would adversely influence the caddies and have a bad effect generally on the standing of the organization.

NEW UNIFORMS FOR PARIS BAND ARRIVE

Shipment of Handsome Regalia Perfect in Every Way; Issued to Men Last Night

The Paris band is in uniform. Forty-five handsome black and white uniforms, received Monday by the Arthur Caddel company, were issued to the members of the Paris Municipal band Monday night. An unusual feature of the consignment is that every suit fits the man for whom it was ordered, made-to-measure.

There was an easily apparent extra punch and vigor to the rehearsal yesterday that followed receipt of the uniforms, Arthur Caddel declared he had felt all the while that uniforms would not only greatly enhance the appearance of the organization and also further encourage the individual members, but that he was really surprised at the new enthusiasm with which his men received this gift from the people of the town who provided the suits in a whirlwind campaign of personal subscription.

The men will assemble at some time today in full uniform to have pictures made in new regalia. The pictures will be used in the papers along the route of the trip to Waco, where the band will participate in the state band contest next Tuesday. One concert will be given at Radio Station WFAA, 1219 Dallas News and Journal, at 1:30 o'clock Monday.

New racks have been built at the band's headquarters here and the suits will be used in the practice of the band. The suits are black serge trimmed in black velvet, with "Paris" inscribed on the collars and caps in gold braid. On the back of the cap is inscribed the word "Direct."

Tentative plans are under way for the organization to give a public concert here in full uniform before going to Waco, if it is possible to arrange it. It is hoped the men will give the program that it is to broadcast by radio.

CHILDREN'S MATINEE OF GROTTO MINSTREL SHOW

Committees in charge of the Khalid Grotto minstrel and musical comedy, "The Jollies of 1926," announce a special school children's matinee for Thursday afternoon at the Grand Theatre to start at 4 o'clock. The entire show will be presented in full costume and scenic effects just as it is to be presented at night. The afternoon performance is to be given for school children only and the regular children's price will be offered.

This performance is being given due to the fact that the show is to play in Paris only one night and there are so many who wish to see the show that the house probably will be packed. By giving the matinee, the school children will have a chance to see the show, too.

JOINTOWN PLANNING ON IMPROVEMENTS

Jointown, a small place on the Paris and Mt. Pleasant railroad, is said to have prospects for becoming a live little business point. A Mr. Goldstein of Tyler has bought a lot and made arrangements to erect a large business house, the material used in the construction being concrete blocks with a concrete floor.

The people of the town plan on getting a high line wire to furnish current for electric lights.

CONFEDERATE DEAD HONORED BY U. D. C.

Veterans Graves Are Decorated After Special Services at Court House

The annual Confederate memorial services under the auspices of Ladies chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy, which were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Educational Hall at the court house, were well attended.
 Mrs. T. D. Wells, president of the chapter, presided over the exercises, which were opened with prayer by Comrade A. B. Pettit of the camp.

The program included a solo by Mrs. Jack Crook, the memorial address by the president, a reading by Mrs. Neal Duncanson of the dead by Mrs. O. L. Means, the historical presentation of a cross of honor to J. E. Johnson of the First Missouri regiment, song, "God Be with You Till We Meet Again," and benediction by Mrs. C. M. Reavis.

Heretofore at the memorial services some of the pastors of the churches have led in conducting the memorial service, but this year a departure from the custom was made. The Daughters of the Confederacy decided to conduct the services themselves.

After the program was concluded the committees for the different cemeteries visited them and placed decorations on the graves. Confederate flags were used for the decoration at the places except at the monument at the southwest corner of the court house lawn, where flowers were used.

The committees for the different cemeteries, who looked after decorating the graves were Mrs. W. L. Hutchison and Mrs. Reavis assisted by four or five members of the chapter for Evergreen.

Mrs. John T. Dickson and Mrs. Charles McDonald for the old cemetery; Mrs. Hilda, Mrs. Robert Albright and Miss Golden Barr for the Old Fellows cemetery.

Mrs. J. W. Cunningham and Mrs. Belle Early decorated the monument on the court house lawn.
 Flags were left with the sextons of the cemeteries for families of any dead soldiers whose graves could not be located to call for and place on them.

GRAND OINTMENT MAKES PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES GO

Ever since its introduction in this country of the wonderful Black and White Ointment and Soap, skin specialists say that such troubles as pimples, blotches, bumps, rash, tetter, eczema, "breaking out," etc., are becoming fewer every year.

Wide distribution of Black and White Ointment and Soap has made it possible for millions of people to get the benefit of this wonderful quick effect in clearing disfigured skin and making it smooth and good to look at. Dealers everywhere say they are selling faster than anything of a similar nature they have ever handled, and they attribute this popularity to the low prices at which they are sold, as well as their dependability. Thus size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size.

WORKERS

In all the talk about the upper and lower classes in our country and the injustice done by the so called lower, do we stop to think that both classes are unjust to their thoughts of one another —that is, the workers of both classes?

John Ruskin, the English art critic and lecturer, addressing a working man's institute in the early 70's, recognized this fact and his words are just as true in this day and in this country as when they were uttered under such different circumstances in England.

"There are idle rich and idle poor," he says;
"and there are busy poor and busy rich. Many a beggar is as lazy as if he had ten thousand a year; many a man of large fortune is busier than his grand-boy, and never would think of stopping in the street to play marbles. So that, in a large view, the distinction between workers and idlers, as between knaves and honest men, runs through the very heart and innermost nature of men of all ranks and in all positions.

"There is a working class—strong and happy —among both rich and poor. And the worst of the misunderstandings arising between the two orders comes of the unlucky fact that the wise of one class habitually contemplate the foolish of the other. If the busy rich people watched and rebuked the idle rich people, all would be right among them. And if the busy poor people watched and rebuked the idle poor people, all would be right among them.

"But each looks for the faults of the other.
A hard-working man of property is particularly offended by an idle beggar; and an orderly, but poor workman is naturally intolerant of the licentious luxury of the idle rich."

Among the workers of the world, then, Ruskin opines, there should be no worldly distinction.
But there are class distinctions, he says, among the industrious themselves. And these distinctions are mainly four: There are those who work and those who play; those who produce the means of life and those who consume them; those who work with the head and those who work with the hands; and those who work wisely and those who work foolishly.

In reference to those who play, many of the games, Ruskin avers, are costly—hunting and dressing, playing at literature and art and playing at war. "And they are all paid for in deadly work somewhere, as some of us know too well."

As to the second distinction—producing and consuming Ruskin states that "the first necessity of social life is the law—that he should keep who has justly earned. But there is a false distinction; namely, the power held by those who are earning wealth by those who already possess it, and only use it to gain more." This greed for money makes men unjust and oppressive. The great unfulfilling principle is this, says Ruskin: "Whenever money is the principle object in life with either man or nation, it is both got ill and spent ill."

There must be work done with the hands and work done with the brain, and the same men cannot do both. "There is rough work done and rough men must do it; there is gentle work to be done and gentle men must do it."

As to his last distinction, Ruskin applies this test to the work that is wise and that which is foolish: Wise work is "honest, it is useful, and it is cheerful."

EUROPE CAN LEARN FROM AMERICA

THE United States of America is a visible demonstration that 48 separate and distinct local governments, handling local problems and local conditions, can function successfully under one strong guiding hand, on matters pertaining to the national or international welfare of the 48 separate units.

Hatred, jealousy, envy, greed, or the desire to acquire territory from a neighboring state does not exist in the United States. The American people play politics through their different parties and they play it hard, but when their interests clash, they have learned to leave the settlement of their difficulties to their courts or to their federal government.

As our nation has successfully solved the problem of combining 48 separate and distinct state governments under one national head, in handling affairs for the well-being of the nation collectively, why will it not be possible ultimately for European nations to pattern after our example?
The problem of harmonizing the affairs of many different races is more complicated, but basically the problem is no different than was the harmonizing of the many questions pertaining to states rights, under our own central form of government.

Our own 48 separate states, the provinces of Canada and the central governments of Canada and the United States live side by side, and no thought of war or conquest, jealousy or hatred exists between people of these nations or their separate states.

Europe and the rest of the world have an example to pattern after, if they so desire. The fact that their problems are more intricate and difficult at the present time, should make them more determined than ever to group themselves under some central or controlling organization with the power to harmonize and settle local griefs as they arise, just as do the local and central governments of their neighbors in America.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

THE MAYFIELD BILL

From Denison Herald:
SHOULD the bill by Senator Mayfield granting to railroads the right to extend their lines without first having obtained the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission become a law it will take from that regulatory body some of the autocratic power conferred on it by the transportation act. The proposition passed the Senate with very little opposition and now goes to the House where it is predicted the sailing will not be so smooth.

Unquestionably development has been greatly retarded by the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve railroad extensions as well as the construction of new lines into virgin territory. Under existing law and the policies prevailing the commission views all building propositions from a national rather than a state or local standpoint. It takes the earning capacity of the country's railroads as a whole and by that standard passes judgment on proposed extensions or entirely new lines.

The fact that Senator Cummings, author in part of the transportation act, supported the Mayfield bill shows that he recognizes the uneco-nomical value of the provision, that it has worked hardships on railroads as well as communities and should be eliminated from the act. And that the proposed measure applies to construction of interstate as well as intra-state railroad extensions in a measure compensate for the retained power of the Interstate Commerce Commission to pass on the building of new lines.

It is to be hoped the House will pass the bill; it will mean much to Texas if it does. In fact, it would be in accord with popular sentiment in this state to make it apply to railroad building, whether extension of existing lines or the construction of new roads. Texas needs additional railroad facilities and its resources, developed and undeveloped, are capable of supporting every project that has been proposed within the past five years. And the men willing to risk their money in the investment ought to know more about the situation than the gentlemen on the commission who get their information from an examiner.

WORLD TOPICS

"OUTLAWING OF WARS ONLY POSSIBLE BY CHANGING HEART OF MAN"

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, in a recent speech says:

RIDING the world of international war is a difficult proposition that can be solved, not by outlawing war or merely limiting armaments, but by bringing about a change in the heart of man.

There is still another obstacle to peace. That is found in the state of those countries that have lapsed, whether temporary or permanently it is too soon to say, from the democratic ideal, and that have permitted or suffered the setting up among them and over them of what is substantially a despotic form of government. Despotism is always a danger to peace. The time comes when it can o-pmentally itself by sousing the popular passion to international hatred and international conflict. The civilized world must view with concern every lapse from democracy to despotism as involving a possible threat to the peace and good order of the nations.

Another obstacle to world peace is found in the Mohammedan world. There is testimony to the effect that this unrest is at bottom anti-Christian, anti-Western and anti-individualist.

The question of limiting armaments is ordinarily approached in a more or less mechanical fashion, and it is supposed that some formula can be found by which both land and naval armaments may be limited according to the size, the population or the wealth of a nation, and that the resulting statute will be satisfactory. It may as well be bluntly recorded that it will not. The successful limitation of armament must rest on something far deeper than an arithmetical formula. It must rest on the conviction that armament make not for security, but for war. When that point is reached there will be quick and effective limitation of armament. Until that point is reached there will be nothing but more or less futile and superficial debate.

As for changing the human heart—if it be held and taught that men in groups or nations cannot adjust their economic and their personal interests and ambitions peaceably and by the use of institutions founded on the rule of right, as is everywhere done in the case of differences between the economic and personal interests of individuals, then it must be conceded that the group mind offers an exception to all that experience teaches as to the possibility, in the case of individuals, of the intellectual and moral improvement of mankind. The elemental step is that each nation shall conceive itself as having a moral aim and a moral responsibility and shall cease from constantly elevating interests that are purely matterial and gain seeking above those that are moral, spiritual and of a higher and dominating order.

ANDREW AND IMOGENE

By Roe Fulkerson

"Andrew," begged Imogene just after dinner, "let's go some place."
"I would rather stay here than my boiled beef and horseradish sauce," Andrew laid his hand on the lower part of his vest.
"You eat too much," answered Imogene. "I don't believe it is good for you. When I have anything for dinner which you like, such as boiled beef and horseradish sauce, you eat so much that you are sluggish and dopey after dinner. I am afraid it will injure your health. I read the other day that a celebrated English doctor said we all eat twice as much as we should."

"Yeah," snorted Andrew. "The English built the world's most wonderful roads in that English doctor's country, and those old birds spent six hours at dinner every day. History records noting about their breakfasts and lunches, but if they had both of these they must have put in the entire day eating. Old Vitellius, one of their emperors, ate four meals a day and how he had time to emp. I don't understand. Another old bird named Seneca ate several hundred oysters every day and he was a moron if we are to believe history."

"What the English doctor is talking he should recall that Edward II cut down the courses of state dinners to two of flesh at a meal, each course consisting of four kinds of meat. Those Romans and the English have done quite a little in the world for people who are digging their graves with their teeth."

"One by one my childish pleasures are taken from me. It has not been so very long ago since I found that Santa Claus is a bank account. It hasn't been so long since I discovered that St. Valentine's day was a chance to send another person a printed insult as well as a paper ruffled message of love."

A little later in life I found the diabolical family outting rouge and lipstick on the hen-apples. I had to realize that Ester was a fake too, and the rabbit had nothing to do with it.

"When I get a good square meal like the boiled beef and horseradish sauce, I get back all my childish illusions. I can sit in this big chair and decide that the world is good and that everyone is happy."

"I believe in Santa Claus and gifts from him. I know that St.
Valentine's day will bring me a red heart with a ruffled paper petticoat surrounding it. I am sure that egg-laying rabbits of Easter will scatter a supply of sandy partners of the ham slices."
"I have a sense of well being and of moral turpitude which makes me believe in everything that is good. Like Santa Claus, wives, Easter, home St.
Valentine's day and generosity. I am—"

"Oh, Andrew!" interrupted Imogene. "I am glad I saw you such a nice dinner. I am pleased it makes you think of all those nice things. Down at the New York store I saw the loveliest summer coat ever. It is made like a man's coat, with a notched collar and all, and it has no trimming of any kind, only just a bit of the goods applied on the sleeve where the buttons are, and it has those wonderful lines which make your hips look so thin. It is fifty dollars, and I have spent all my allowance this month, so I thought maybe I told you about it you might be interested. The dark girl with the boyish bob in the suit department knows my size and the one I mean, and if you happened in there tomorrow and asked her, she could show it to you and—"

"I got fifty bucks this morning from a man I never expected would pay me. It says in the Roman, He not exercised over the acquisition of great riches, for Allah will provide a great necessity therefore," answered Andrew.

WHO'S WHO
IN THE DAYS NEWS

DR. OSTEN UDEN

Those who have watched developments of the League of Nations closely are giving a great deal of credit to the foreign minister of Sweden, Dr. Osten Uden, for his efforts to keep the body alive.

If he had not had the courage to stand alone most of the time in demanding a seat for Germany on the league council, and if he had not stood against permanent seats for Brazil, Poland and Spain, Germany would have withdrawn from league affairs long ago, and only the council of victorious powers would have remained.

Dr. Uden is a quiet person, little known even in his own country. He was born at Karlstad, Varmland, Sweden, 28 years ago.
At the early age of 28 he became a professor of international law at Uppsala. He has been a cabinet minister since 20.

While a student he became a member of the Brining faction of the Social Democratic Party. When in 1917 the Socialists and Democrats formed a coalition and took over control of the Riksdag, Uden was made minister without a portfolio because of his legal abilities. He resigned shortly thereafter because of ill health but was persuaded to become foreign minister when the second Brining cabinet was formed in 1923.

It is said he is a man of no emotions, unmoved by census or pleading. At the league meetings although charged with alteri-motives by many of the statesmen assembled there he maintained an unruffled composure throughout the session.

MOVIE "HEARTBREAK
HOUSE" TRUE TO NAME

Culver City, Cal.—"Heartbreak House" is a place in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios that lives up to its name.

Here directors, executives, players, experts and others gather to decide on necessary operations upon pictures. Then the film goes to the cutting rooms, where scisors, razor blades and glue do the actual work.

Sometimes a director's favorite shot—one that he has spent nights in developing—is found unnecessary. So out it goes. Many a star may be seen weeping tears of disappointment as the scenes she wanted to appear in all her life, are ordered whacked out as irrelevant. Here directors be the author of the camera man.

Many thousand feet of negative film are used in every picture, so when the cutting is made to bring the action within five or ten reels almost every one connected with the play suffers.

Spotted Fever Peril Menaces
Children

If we could have a wish granted I have no doubt everybody would think of the children. What could we ask for them?

The greatest boon that could be had for the kiddies would be to guarantee that they should never have infectious diseases. If all contagion could be destroyed what a blessing it would be.
Among the terrible diseases to be wiped out would be what the doctors call "cerebrospinal meningitis," "epidemic meningitis," or "spotted fever."

We are never free from it. But every spring gives us word of an increase in the disease. March, April and early May are the worst months.
Like other infectious or "catching" diseases it appears to travel fast in crowded tenements. Distressed homes with lots of fresh air and sunlight seem safer.

This ailment is not like measles or scarlet fever in its contagion-ness. It does not spread rapidly where near as rapidly. But there is no doubt that it is due to a particular infection and must be numbered among the "germ diseases."

Intense headache, vomiting, fever, great weakness, unconsciousness and death. These may be the symptoms, compressed within a few hours.
Happily this lightning like form is not the usual one. A more common history is to have headache, vomiting, delirium, convulsions, chills and fever, stiffness of the muscles and bending backward of the body. The skin is usually spotted with red blotches. Gradually the symptoms subside and recovery proceeds.

The sudden attack is characteristic of the disease. The skin eruption, like mosquito bites, is a pretty sure sign. The arms, legs and upper part of the chest are usually involved.

The disease lasts for a week or ten days in some cases, but usually for a month or six weeks. It takes many months for a full recovery.

Deafness is a common effect of cerebrospinal meningitis. If the attack occurs in a very small child deaf-muteness may result. That is, in account of the profound deafness the child does not learn to talk. Blindness, kidney involvement and joint diseases may follow.

If a child has any of the symptoms of this disease, you should call the doctor at once. It is well for us that some of the ailments of early childhood seem a lot worse than they really are. For instance, there may be a sudden convulsion, most alarming to the young mother. You must remember, however, that tiny children frequently have convulsions at the beginning of an illness, just as group-ups have chills.

The scientists are working all the time on remedies for these terrible afflictions. Much work is being done in seeking a prevention and a cure for cerebrospinal meningitis. There are serums in use at present. Your doctor will tell you about them.

I am glad this disease is comparatively rare. I shall be happy, however, when it is wiped out entirely, as I believe it will be. The fairest page in medical history is the story of what has been and is being done for the little children.
Some day our wish will come true and their diseases will disappear entirely.

POEMS I LOVE

BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"Recollection," by Anne Reeve Aldrich
This New York poet, who died in 1892, is far too little known. I am not saying that the greater portion of what she gave us is invaluable, but certain brief lyrics have a quality that places them above the run of the verse published so promiscuously by ardent publishers and versifiers.

The lines I quote have long remained in my memory, and they refuse to leave me. They are marked by a great gift for contrast; and anyone who has known Love, and the sorrow that usually accompanies it, will be affected by Miss Aldrich's deep feeling—a remembrance so keen that it brings almost a physical pain.

How can it be that I forget
The way he phrased my doom,
When I recall the arabesques
That carpeted the room?

How can it be that I forget
His look and men that hour,
When I recall I wore a rose,
And still can smell the flower?

How can it be that I forget
Those words that were the last
When I recall the tone a man
Was whispering as he passed?

These things are what we keep from life's
Supreme joy or pain.
For memory locks her chaff in bins
And throws away the grain.

The program will last throughout the day with an hour's intermission at noon for lunch.

The Blossom school is very anxious to win the prize and urges every member of the church to attend their next Sunday morning at 8:30 at the church and help to increase their attendance and collection for the day. In order that they may have transportation for all who wish to go, the teachers will be most appreciative of any assistance given them in this way.

COMMON MALADY IS FOUND SERIOUS AMONG WOMEN HERE

Remarkable Discovery of the Cause of Nine Out of Every Ten Cases of So-Called Female Troubles Results in Perfection of Wonderful Medicine.

The common woman is very easily destroyed. Very often girls go through that period of life when all her companions are looking forward to her becoming a mother and she herself is looking forward to the day when they shall realize the greatest ambition of their life and become a happy bride. You have seen a young girl of the doubtful age of 20 still with the prospect of marriage, while all her other friends are either married or about to be. It is easy to see that the doesn't attract men in the way that her friends do, but why doesn't she?

What is holding her back from the realization of every girl's dream? She has no features, no complexion, no hair, no eyes, but no man seems to be interested in her.

The answer to the question lies in the state of her health, which is a liability instead of an asset to her. She has broken engagements with them because she was too sick to keep them. She has alarmed them by her nervousness and angered them by her irritability. Regardless of her charming personality when she is well, she makes up for her shortcomings when she is sick.

Only a few weeks ago the discovery of the now famous St. Joseph's G. F. P. made the prediction that within a few years after the universal use of G. F. P. by the women of this country, such common ailments as nausea, pains in the side, back and legs, headaches, cramping spells, and that awful and run-down feeling of depression, will be a thing of the past. And the way is being paved to become more and more a thing of the past. And the way is paved to become more and more a thing of the past. And the way is paved to become more and more a thing of the past.

Why Americans Excel

The genius of America is restless. It is always striving to master new problems; and when new problems are solved, it advances to others. It is never satisfied.

For that reason we are constantly moving forward into new fields of discovery—insatiable, always demanding something newer, something better, something different. Nothing demonstrates this more remarkably than the advertisements you read. They cover the entire range of human requirements—from the absolute necessities of life to the most refined luxuries. Yet they are constantly changing. This continual change means fresh materials, fresh ideas, a stimulus to new endeavor.

The moment you cease to find interest in the advertisements of the offerings of industry, of commerce, of art—that moment you will begin to retrogress, and the world will slip away from you.

CANNIBALS BLAST PARIS IN SWATFEST

Appleton Proves Paris Stun-bling Block; Longview
Masses Bingles

The Longview Cannibals turned the tables on the Bearcats yesterday and took the second game of the series by a score of 11 to 0 in a hitting contest. The Cannibals, by hitting the home runs, made practically the same number of hits but could not produce the needed bingles in a pinch.

Roy Appleton was the chief stumbling block in the path of the Bearcats, the veteran being good when his men are runs. The Cannibals, however, did not let a majority of his blows come when the bases were unoccupied. Stagner and Lowrance led the Bearcats in the hitting department, getting three doubles, while Stagner got two doubles and a single, and counted three of the five Bearcat bingles.

Geddes, making his initial bow of the season before Paris fans, was hit freely, and was also wild. Geddes was the victim of bad breaks that aided in the Cannibal scoring. He was finally relieved in the seventh by Bowman. There were three on and no out when Bowman took over the pitching assignment, and before the side could be retired in this frame three Cannibals had chased across the plate.

Score in First
The Cannibals scored a run in the first when Irb, first up, hit between first and second. Brownlow and King went out in order. Irb winding up at third, Moore worked Geddes for a pass, and on the double steal little Dan's scored. In the second, White also walked. Roy hit out to Hannegan and Birch struck out. White stole second, went to third on Irb's infield hit and scored on Brownlow's safety.

In the third the Cannibals got three more, and sent a base on balls first up, got his second walk of the game, and McMahon singled over second. White sacrificed. Birch hit a squeeze play, was put out on and Moore scored. Birch was hit by a pitched ball. On the double steal McMahon scored. Appleton singled, and Birch scored when Geddes made a wild throw to third.

The Cannibals could do nothing in the fourth and fifth, but broke out in the sixth. Irb walked, stole second and went to third on Hannegan's infield out. King also drew a pass, and stole second. Moore singled to right, scoring both runners.

In the seventh Birch beat out an infield hit and Birch hunted and beat the throw. Roy went to third on a passed ball. Geddes was yanked at this juncture. Irb flew out to Crumpton. Brownlow drew a base on balls and King stopped at third. Appleton, who was left, Appleton stopped at center, scoring Appleton. The last Cannibal run came in the eighth on successive doubles by Birch and Irb.

Paris Scores in Fourth
The Bearcats were held harmless until the fourth when they put across a pair. Lowrance lined a double to center, taking third on Hannegan's long fly to King in center. "Old Reliable" who was another cent who is crowning the pill, locked a double to unoccupied territory and Lowrance came over with run 1. Stone got a single that scored Stagner for run no. 2.

In the sixth Stagner singled and scored on a sacrifice. Appleton, who was left, Appleton stopped at center, scoring Appleton. The last Cannibal run came in the eighth on successive doubles by Birch and Irb.

HAYNES HOLDS THE PARIS IN SWATFEST

Young Southpaw Allows Visitors Only Seven Hits; Tiger Stone With Paris

The Bearcats took Sunday's game from the Cannibals by a score of 7 to 0, when young Lefty Haynes pitched a beautiful game, holding the Cannibals to seven hits and two runs. The kid moved down the enemy almost in order, and his pitching performance left nothing to be desired.

The showing made by Haynes Sunday was extremely gratifying to the youngsters' many friends in Paris, and shining light in the Bearcat hurling corps. He had speed, a good curve, and about everything a pitcher needs. He also did his part of the stick work, getting two hits and driving in a run.

The Bearcats had their hitting clothes on Sunday and belted two Cannibal pitchers freely during the game. Sowers and Lowrance, in particular, had a good day with the hickory, the nimble Jerry getting four safeties out of five attempts, while Lowrance got the same number. Sunday's game, however, was a good day for the Cannibals, as they were able to get a few hits and drive in a run.

for the day, although the Bearcats had runners base in each of the succeeding rounds. However, the localists held plenty the way they needed baling.

The Cannibals got a run in the second, the only earned run the visitors got during the game. After Moore had been retired, McMahon doubled to right center and scored on Roy's hit over third. The second Cannibal run came in the seventh and it was a virtual gift. After White had gone out on a long fly to Gallagher, Birch hit over second and went to the middle station on an error by Lowrance. Birch got a base on balls, and Roy was forced at third on an infield tap by Phillips. Birch hit a high fly to right, which the usually reliable Gallagher dropped, Birch scoring on the play.

The best bit of pitching done by Haynes came in the eighth when the Cannibals hit the bases loaded with none out, and then failed to register. Deckery, who had already walked twice, was again awarded a free trip to first and Moore dropped a single to center. McMahon hit a short single to right, filling the sacks. It was a ticklish situation that confronted Haynes, but the youngster showed the right stuff by bearing down. Phillips was forced at third on a hit by White's rap to Lowrance, at first, and Moore was likewise extinguished at the payoff station when Crumpton took Jensen's hit to the left of third and threw to Stagner. Birch ended the inning when he forced Jensen a second.

In the ninth Haynes set the Cannibals down in order, although Brownlow used a pair of pinch hitters in King and Craig, and it was all over for the day.

Victory Was Earned
The game was really an excellent exhibition and gratifying to the fans in many ways than one. Gratifying by the showing of Haynes and by the fact that the home club won, and won on merit alone. It was an earned victory, the local heavy artillery driving out seven of the Cannibals during the afternoon, at the expense of Robertson and George Lefty Phillips, who relieved Robertson when the going got rough for that young man.

The game was really an excellent exhibition and gratifying to the fans in many ways than one. Gratifying by the showing of Haynes and by the fact that the home club won, and won on merit alone. It was an earned victory, the local heavy artillery driving out seven of the Cannibals during the afternoon, at the expense of Robertson and George Lefty Phillips, who relieved Robertson when the going got rough for that young man.

WON BOTH ENDS OF DOUBLE HEADER
The Rockford boys played a double header baseball game at Jennings Saturday afternoon. The first game was with Jennings. The second game was with Rockford. The Rockford team was again successful by the score of 6 to 4.

SUZANNE LENGLEN PLAYS BRILLIANTLY
Rome, April 26. (AP)—Suzanne Lenglen, the French tennis champion, who is playing in exhibition matches here, today continued her brilliant play. Teamed with Jacques Brougnon, she defeated Miss Duros of England and Signor Escoffier in mixed doubles, 6-2; 6-0.

Eugene, Okla.—Starting in 1915 with assets consisting principally of a Washington hand and press nearly 100 years old and since that time aided by an appropriation of only about $500 the University of Oregon Press has grown into a large institution.

The new home of the Press, a $13,000 structure, was financed out of funds which it had earned.

Whatever Detroit Does It's Ty Cobb's Team

Although he frankly admits that his pitching staff is not a satisfactory one, Ty Cobb has hopes of leading the Tiger team a notch or two higher in the American league race. Whatever success it may have, the Tigers will be interested, as usual, partly because of the color Cobb himself lends to the outfit.

And that much can be said. Whatever success the Tigers achieve from now on can be laid at Ty Cobb's door. For the team as it stands now is of Ty's making, since he became pilot in the last of the 1921 race.

Only two members of the club outside of the Georgia superman himself, were drawing salary from the Detroit bosses when Hughie Jennings turned the managerial reins over to Cobb last April 27.

These five are the seven pitchers, George Baus, Catcher Larry Bassler, Catcher Larry Woodall, First Baseman Lu Blue and Outfielder Harry Heilmann.

Two Were Real Youngsters
And of these five, two were youngsters with their way to make when Jennings stepped out. The two were Lu Blue and Woodall. The latter was a green rookie. Blue lacked the experience that the veterans under Cobb's skillful handling have given him.

Daunt of course was one of the mainstays of the team under Jennings. For some 17 years this day's of a second of Charley Faddock's world record of 29.4-5 seconds.

Because he threw won the 75-yard dash and made a bid for the 100-yard event. The races were held at Grimsby, New Zealand. Faddock makes the University of Michigan, Eugene, Ohio, matter, and the New York Athletic Club, under whose colors he now runs, quite tickled of course.

For pitchers, Cobb has Wells, Whitell, Collins, Stagner, Baus, John and Holloway, in addition to Dauss.

Truly plenty of strange faces for the fan who perchance hasn't seen the club for a few years.

Enjoy Eating
If your blood is pure~ You like to eat
REMEMBER how you used to come in from play hungry as a bear? Bet you could hardly wait until Dad filled your plate! And didn't everything taste good! Seemed like you never would get enough. Didn't you feel good those days. Yes, they were the red blooded days.

Why isn't your appetite like that now? Why don't you like to eat just the same as you did in those days. Here's the reason—your system is empty starving for the lack of rich red blood! You've lost your appetite because you've lost your red blood power. No red blood nourishment for the tissues of your body.

Build up your blood to where it is pure and red and rich and watch that appetite come back! S.S.S. is the way to do it! S.S.S. helps Nature build red-blood cells—builds them by the millions!

You'll get hungry and you'll enjoy eating when S.S.S. helps Nature build pure red cells in that weak blood of yours. And you'll look better—your skin will be clear and unblemished and your flesh will become firm and solid—strength and power will come to your flabby muscles—you'll be yourself again.

S.S.S. will bring back the joy of eating. It's done it for thousands for generations. It's going to do it for you, too! Get a red and white package that appetite come back! S.S.S. is the way to do it! S.S.S. helps Nature build red-blood cells—builds them by the millions!

PETER'S ADVENTURES
ANIMAL LAND

Little Orphan Grunt
"Leaves, fresh picked leaves!" twittered Peet-Weet, and I knew by the quivering of his beak that the little bird was just as hungry as I was, only too polite to say so.

"Hop down and have a bit, squealed I, and Peet-Weet needed his tail feathers. 'Night is the time for slumbering. My tummy is full, the day is fine. I am happy and I want to sing!'"

"Spreading wide his wings, off flew Peet-Weet and soon was out of sight. Little cared I. I tucked my snout between my paws, closed my eyes tight and dreamed myself straight into the Great Forest, where I found Mother and Dad and went rooting with them and had the most bee-sting time!

"But everything must come to an end, even a dream, and at last I woke up. The very first thing I saw when I opened my eyes was Peet-Weet perched on the branch above me."

"Well, well, when did you fly back old friend?" asked I. "How long have you been there? Why didn't you wake me up before?"

"Why I must have slept the day away! The great Red Ball is sliding down the sky, unless my eyes deceive me!"

"Then I noticed that somehow Peet-Weet wasn't the same happy little bird that had sailed to the clouds that morning. Peet-Weet's head drooped, his tail feathers trailed mournfully from the twig on which he sat."

"What is the matter, Peet-Weet? I sat up suddenly, sure that something was wrong. I tried to catch the little bird's eye, but he would not look at me at all. Then slowly, sadly, he began to twitter the terrible news."

"Poor little grunt! Left all alone in the wide, wide world! A whirl of wings and he was beside me on the ground, a bit of green in his bill. And between us we ate up the breakfast in no time!"

"Mum! Good! I smacked my lips. And now, Peet-Weet, I am going to take a nap in the sun!"

"Little sleepy-head! Peet-Weet bobbed his round head and flicked from the Great Forest, Grunt! The North Wind brought me the sad news and I bring it to you, little orphan!"

Chacma Comes Back
The little pig in Peter's arms began to shiver and then to shake. Peter felt a hot tear splash on his hand.

"There, there!" The boy patted the smooth fat back. "Don't tell me any more if it makes you feel so badly. Let's talk about something else, Grunt," said he.

"But there isn't any more to tell," sobbed the little pig. "Peet-Weet flew away and left me and it grew dark and I cried and cried, and then—then Chacma came!"

"So I did and here I come again!"

Peter jumped at the sound of a hand at the game for that!"

chucked Chacma. We babies picked all the cane we wanted before their stupid noses caught our scent. They slept at their post, just as I knew they would. A fine pair of sentries those two dogs are!" Chacma was scornful. Then—

"Keh! Keh! Keh!"

Chacma started to cough and he kept on for so long that Peter and the little pig feared he was going to choke. At last the poor baboon raised his head, gasped for breath, sat down upon his haunches and began to open and shut his mouth in a helpless sort of way that made the boy want to laugh.

Next: Thirsty—the Enemy.
